

Bio:

Sam Funk attended Syracuse University as a Writing and Rhetoric major from 2009 to 2013.

Soon after, Sam began work for sculptor Mark Mennin. Mark was the first to spark my interest in stone sculpture, through the rigorous passion with which he pursues his work and his vast store of art history knowledge. Sam continued his work experience and education as a gallery assistant for KMR Arts in Washington Depot, CT under the owner and gallerist Kathy McCarver Root. Through Kathy, Sam Funk gained invaluable insight into fine art photography and gallery practice. He currently works for Mark Mennin as a studio assistant and continues to write and to carve in stone.
